

"Love this" @hamer30

Forward to a friend

THINGS TO DO THIS WEEKEND

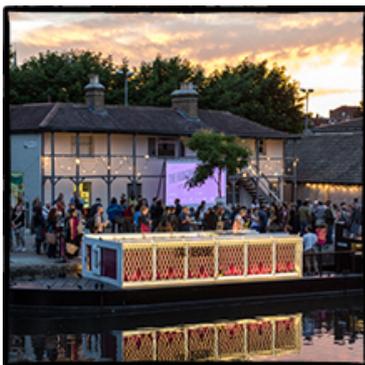

Explore feminist cinema, watch a film about outer space and take part in a 90s spin class

Put your hands in the air

Saturday spin

Another brilliant pay-as-you-go fitness class: this weekend join 1Rebel for a '90s club classic ride'. Instructor Katie will guide you through a 45-minute spin class with a soundtrack of 1990s anthems. (If Baby D's Let Me Be Your Fantasy doesn't get you moving, nothing will.) 22 August; 12.15; £10; 63 St Mary Axe, EC3A

All aboard!

Canal culture

Floating Cinema has arrived in London for talks, performances and screenings about outer space. The first mooring is tomorrow, in Bromley-by-Bow, and will feature a talk with artist Shezad Dawood, performance from electro-pop duo Grumblin Fur and screening of Dawood's film Piercing Brightness. 21 Aug-20 Sept; times, prices and locations vary

Mind games

This year's Mind Sports Olympiad kicks off on Sunday. Over 60 board game competitions will take place, including Scrabble and chess, and there will also be card and video games. Register to take part (from £10) or be part of the audience for free. 23-31 August;

Check it out

times vary: JW3, 341-351 Finchley Road, NW3

Feminist film

Banging the drum for feminism

The London Feminist Film Festival launches today with The Lady Of Percussion, a documentary about a Cuban percussionist fighting to be part of a male-dominated activity. Screenings for the three-day event will take place at the Rio in Dalston and the Tricycle in Hampstead. Until 23 August: times, prices and venues vary

You'll need to get on your bike

Cycling tour

Join English Heritage architecture expert David Garrard for a bike tour of the River Lea. You will explore some very different sides of east London, from the familiar modern developments to Victorian buildings and beautiful, peaceful countryside. 23 August: 10.30am: £24.50: Clapton Station, Upper Clapton Road, E5

IS IT ABOUT BEING CLEAN OR ABOUT BEING FANCY?