

NEWINGTON SCENE

Going Out Uncategorized

London Feminist Film Festival

📅 August 11, 2016 👤 amydrucquer@gmail.com 💬 0 Comment

About: The London Feminist Film Festival is returning to the Rio Cinema in Dalston for its 4th year.

Recent years have seen increases in right wing conservatism, which have resulted in a surge in various forms of discrimination and bigotry. In 2016 many women across the globe are finding the rights they fought so hard for are under attack again. The London Feminist Film Festival aims to question and raise awareness of the issue of female rights. Kicking off the festival with a 25th anniversary screening of Pratibha Parmar's A Place of Rage - this award-winning documentary celebrates African American women and their achievements within the context of the civil rights, Black power, and feminist movements.

For more information and a full programme of event spanning the weekend, click here. Took book & buy your tickets head to the Rio Cinema website here.

Where & When: Rio Cinema, Dalston. 18th - 22nd September

Share this:

Related

What's on this weekend in London - 15th/17th April
April 12, 2016
Similar post

This Weekend in London - 29th/31st JAN
January 27, 2016
Similar post

May Bank Holiday Plans
April 27, 2016
In "Going Out"