TIME OUT SAYS

The London Feminist Film Festival has paired up with the BFI to bring the capital the first independent film by a female Iranian director on its 40th anniversary, 'The Sealed Soil', a screening session on 'Resistance and Survival' - exploring global resistance to violence against women and girls - and a doc challenging the stigmatization of HIV-positive women, 'Talk Back Out Loud', at this fest calling bullshit on movie machismo. See here (<https://londonfeministfilmfestival.com/>) for a full programme of screenings.
