

TICKETS (/LONDON/TICKETS) OFFERS (/LONDON/OFFERS) THINGS TO DO (/LONDON/THINGS-TO-DO) RESTAURANTS (/LONDON/RESTAURANTS) BARS & PUBS (/LONDON/BARS-PUBS)

BLOG CITY LIFE

0 ADD COMMENT LOVE IT SAVE IT

Three things you won't want to miss in London this Thursday

Share Tweet G+

By Alexandra Sims

Posted: Thursday August 17 2017, 5:00am

1. It's the first day of The London Feminist Film Festival (<https://www.timeout.com/london/things-to-do/london-feminist-film-festival>), which has paired up with the BFI to bring a bunch of screenings to the capital calling bullshit on movie machismo. Head to Dalston's Rio Cinema at 6pm to see 'Talk Back Out Loud' – a doc challenging the stigmatization of HIV-positive women. Tickets start at £11.50.

ADVERTISING

2. Ice-cream aficionados Four Winters have teamed up with sugar specialists Meringue Girls to create the 'Mermaid Mashup' (<https://www.timeout.com/london/blog/four-winters-have-made-a-mermaid-mashup-ice-cream-and-it-looks-uhmazing-080817>) - a bonkers concoction of coconut ice-cream with blueberry and raspberry puree topped with a meringue mermaid tail and edible glitter. Pay a visit to their shop at 53 Brewer Street to try it for free between 1pm and 2pm.

3. Chelsea Physic Gardens are holding a rare 'late' to coincide with its 'Weaves and Leaves' exhibition, which unravels the history of the plants we depend on for fabrics. Visit 'Twine at Twilight' (<https://www.timeout.com/london/things-to-do/twine-at-twilight-evening-event>) from 6:30pm to sip on textile-inspired cocktails, hear a live harpist, explore the Silk Road in an interactive theatre production and make your own floral head gear. Tickets are £20.

ADVERTISING

Share Tweet G+ 0 ADD COMMENT

Staff Writer

By Alexandra Sims

Alex is listings editor at Time Out London. She gets excited when she sees dogs on the tube and appreciates a good guitar solo. Follow her on Twitter at @Alex0Sims (<https://twitter.com/alex0sims?lang=en>).

For any feedback or for more information email blognetwork@timeout.com (<mailto:londonblognetwork@timeout.com>)

Feedback